LEADERS OF TWO CITIES CONFER HERE ON MAY 19

Board of directors of the Nevada City chamber of commerce meeting Tuesday evening in city hall issued an invitation to the city officials of Nevada City, Grass Valley, the councilmen-elect of Grass Valley, and boards of directors of the chambers of commerce of Nevada City and Grass Valley for a conference to be held here Thursday evening, May 19, place and time to be designated later.

The conference has been called to discuss centennial and other promotion and publicity.

The board of directors adopted a resolution petitioning the city council to order a general cleanup of the property at the northeast corner of the intersection of Broad and Union, and including the Hot Mill.

H. F. "Si" Sofge, secretary, was instructed to dispatch a letter to Assemblyman Francis Lindsay and State Senator Harold Johnson supporting the construction of a national guard armory in Nevada county.

Harleth Brock, commanding officer of company E, 184th infantry, California national guard, in a letter to the chamber, said the chances of an armory for this area depends primarily upon the restoration of $6,000,000 to the original $10,000,000 national guard armory fund asked by Governor Earl Warren in his budget recommendations.

I. C. Bell and Bill Novak, members of the city planning commission, said it would be the commission's recommendation to the city council Thursday evening that a fence of cedar poles, cyclone wire and rock be placed around the ball park.

The board discussed revision of the city zoning ordinance. Bell stated under the present zoning ordinance it is impossible for new industry or business to enter the city.

Dr. B. W. Hummelt appeared before the board of directors appealing for protests to the public utilities commission hearing of Pacific Telephone & Telegraph company's request for increase of telephone toll between Grass Valley and Nevada City. The commission had granted an interim increase to 10 cents from five cents per call March 21. He announced Ted Edinger, fabrication plant operator, would appear for Nevada City at the hearing which was held Wednesday morning at 11 o'clock in San Francisco.

Sofge told the board he had been visited earlier Tuesday by Bill Clayton, assistant manager of Sacramento district of state chamber of commerce, who had appeared before the board of supervisors. Clayton invited the members of the board of supervisors to join with engineers and staff of the division of highways and members of the boards of supervisors of other counties on a tour through the northern counties of California June 6 to 9. The tour would be scheduled to reach here at noon of the last day.

Ray Spickelmier, George Hansen and Moscoe Smart, members of the chamber's centenial committee, will represent the group at tonight's meeting of centennial promoters in Grass Valley at Veterans Memorial building. John Fortier, president of Grass Valley chamber of commerce, will preside.

JOHN LARUE APPOINTED CITY ATTORNEY

John Larue, local attorney, was appointed city attorney last night by the city council at its regular meeting in city hall. He succeeds William E. Wright who resigned because of ill health and a desire to have a rest.

Thomas H. Taylor presided at the meeting in the absence of A. B. Innis, mayor. All other councilmen were present.

Representatives of the California board of health were here Wednesday, George Calanan, clerk, reported, and inspected sewage disposal site.

Hugh Steinhoff, operator of the Headley garage, appeared before the council and objected to the red line placed on the curb in front of his garage by the street department. Taylor suggested the matter be discussed with Max Solaro, for possible change to a yellow zone.

Herb Nile, on behalf of property owners on Calvary street, presented a deed to the city for sufficient right-of-way to form an alley on Piety hill. One name is yet to be affixed to the deed and the city accepted pending the addition of the signature.

Application of Byron E. Brock and others for annexation to the city was accepted. Brock also deeded 1500 lineal feet of 40-foot width property to the city for use as a road to be known as Brock road. I. C. Bell at the same time deeded five-foot width of parallel property to the city to the bring the road to 45 foot width.

Brock also declared he would give right-of-way for sewer line.

City planning commission reported it will not initiate any projects and will consider only those projects referred to it by the city council.

J. F. Siegfried, chairman of the commission reported it held a meeting Monday and investigated the need of a fence at Pioneer park. The commission recommended a cedar piling fence along north side of the park and a rock wall along the road at the southern end of the baseball field.

The council asked the commission to draw up a new zoning plan for the city to be presented at the next meeting of the city council.

Siegfried was authorized to survey the proposed site of a sewage disposal plant and sewerage lines.

William Mullis reported a new dog pound will be ready within two weeks at the former location. All dogs not licensed will be picked up and if not claimed within 72 hours will be destroyed.

The council renewed the garbage disposal contract with John Zunino for five years.

The city agreed to run a water supply pipeline to the airport.

The council authorized a new disposal box to be placed in front of the Union building at the corner of Pine and Broad. It will replace the box destroyed during the snows.

Purchase of I beams for a new storage building at the city street equipment yard was authorized.

EDINGER SHOWS FOR PHONE RATE PROTEST

F. S. "Ted" Edinger, fabrication plant operator of Hills Flat, appeared before Wednesday morning's meeting of the public utilities commission in San Francisco to represent area organizations protesting the action of the telephone company's increase to ten cents long distance toll between here and Grass Valley. The toll prior to March 21 had been five cents.

Edinger appeared at the hearing with the endorsement of the Nevada City chamber of commerce, city council and Nevada county board of supervisors. All three organizations had filed protests of the increase.

The board of supervisors had telegraphed the commission a copy of a resolution adopted by them Tuesday afternoon.

The resolution protested and condemned the action of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company in increasing its telephone rate between Nevada City and Grass Valley 100 per cent.

The board asked the commission for relief from "excessive and exorbitant increase which will hinder and retard the economy of our county business."

E. R. Ingalls, manager of the local telephone exchange, stated increase in rate was in line with the general increase in the cost of living since the war. Ingalls said the telephone company had retained the pre-war rate as long as it was economically feasible.

Dr. Bernard W. Hummelt, local physician, and one of the leading protestants of the toll rate increase, said he was not opposed to a moderate rate increase, however he feels the increase of 100 per cent is entirely out of line. Hummelt said conomic conditions in this area do not warrant such an increase, the distance between the two cities is only four miles, and there is no sharp demarcation between the two communities.

EUGENE HICKMAN FILES BANKRUPTCY IN COURT

Eugene M. Hickman, operator of Hickman's Transportation Service, Nevada City, has filed a petition in bankruptcy in the federal court in Sacramento.

Hickman lists $266,502 in debts and $2,357 in non exempt assets. Of the total debts listed, $186,572 is a possible contingent liability in a damage suit filed as the result of an accident in which a Hickman truck was involved.

GRASS VALLEY BRAVES INVADE NEVADA CITY FOR RENEWAL OF INTRA-COUNTY SPORTS RIVALRY

Baseball comes to Nevada City Sunday afternoon.

It will be the opening home game of the 1949 Placer-Nevada baseball league and the nameless Nevada City team will open against its perennial rivals, the Grass Valley Braves

Both teams are strong this year with Nevada City apparently having the edge in pitching and batting

Opening festivities will be brief with flag raising ceremony and introduction of managers. The game is scheduled to start at 2:30 at Pioneer park.

Manager Marvin Haddy says he will probably start the same lineup Sunday that has opened the two league games. The team will be considerably strengthened by the addition of Ainsley Fouyer, who returned Monday from the Stockton Ports of the California league.

Haddy said the team will be out after its second victory and should win for two reasons. Nevada City likes nothing better than whipping Grass Valley in sports. The local team is a powerful hustling squad despite its 12-0 setback last Sunday by the Lincoln nine.

And in addition, Haddy said, the team will be playing its opening game on the home diamond.

Other league games Sunday:

Lincoln in Auburn.

Truckee in Roseville A. C.

Placerville in Colfax.

Wolf & Royer in Folsom.

Braves Invade Nevada City for Game With "County Cousins"

The Grass Valley Braves, angered by the 17-8 kicking around Colfax Fireballs gave them last Sunday to mar Grass Valley's opening festivities, held a practice session Wedensday evening and will have another this evening.

Manager Steve Pelayo of the Braves said next Sunday's game would be different when they play their county cousins in Nevada City.

(Editor's Note: Cousin in baseball's language means easy pickings, a soft touch, a push over.)

BOARD DENIES JURY PROPOSAL OF PAY BOOSTS

Nevada county board of supervisors Tuesday denied the recommendation of the grand jury for salary increases for the superior court judge, district attorney and auditor. Carl J. Tobiassen, Frank Rowe and J. C. Coughlan voted to deny the recommendation. Henry Loehr was for approval and Warren Odell abstained.

The grand jury's recommendations called for a $1300 increase to $10,000 annual salary for superior judge, $900 increase to $4,000 for district attorney on part-time basis or to $8,000 annual salary for full time duty, and $380 increase to $1580 for county auditor.

Curtis Clark, foreman of the grand jury, said he signed the recommendations and sent them to Lindsay in Sacramento, and the recommendations were submitted to the legislature as prescribed by law. Clark said the board was not in session at the time the proposals were forwarded to Lindsay.

The board rejected a claim for $1,000 by the Mammoth Springs gold mine, Lowell hill. The board said the claim was unauthorized. Vernon Stoll, district attorney, recommended rejection. The claim was made by the company for use of it own equipment in clearing snow clogged roads during the past winter.

Stoll also expressed the opinion the office of county purchasing agent could not be combined with the county clerk-auditor office because holder of the combined office as auditor, would be auditing his own purchase orders.

Tobiassen reported a fire escape for the third floor of the courthouse would cost between $1,000 and $1200. The fire escape has been recommended by the grand jury.

Robert L. Tamblyn was appointed insurance broker for the county.

George Hansen, appearing on behalf of the Fourth of July centennial committee, requested $1500 from the county for the celebration. The board tabled the request.

The board leased road equipment from the Capitol Tractor & Equipment company, Sacramento, to be used in Tobiassen's district. Lease rate is $765 per month.

Mrs. Pearl Payne Is Interred in Oakland

Funeral services were held Monday in Oakland for Mrs. Pearl Payne, for many years a well-known resident of Columbia hill. She was the cousin of H. A. Curnow of Nevada City.

The former Nevada county woman died Saturday night at her home in Oakland. Mrs. Payne was the daughter of Thomas E. Curnow, superintendent of the Eureka Consolidated gold mine. She was the widow of Arthur Payne. Her grandfather was A. S. Bigelow. She is survived by three daughters and two sisters.

MILK HEARING HERE MAY 20 AT COURTHOUSE

The bureau of milk control, state department of agriculture, announced a milk hearing will be held May 20, in the Placer-Nevada milk marketing area in the supervisors' room, courthouse, Nevada City, at 10 a.m.

The purpose of the hearing is to receive evidence and testimony regarding the cost of producing and distributing fluid milk within the area. One factor leading to the calling of the hearings, bureau officials said, is the decline recently in the price paid by processors to producers for milk used in manufacturing dairy products, such as evaporated and powdered milk, butter, ice cream, etc.

Under the California milk control law, the bureau is required to give due consideration to the relationship between the price paid for milk used in making dairy products and that paid for bottled milk.

Preliminary to the hearing, the bureau is conducting studies into the cost of producing and distributing milk within the area.

Following the hearing, and within 30 days, the bureau must make a finding in which it will state whether or not there will be a change in the minimum prices paid to producers and the minimum prices of milk sold at retail and wholesale in the marketing area. The state establishes minimum prices but does not set maximum prices.

GEIGER COUNTER ON DISPLAY AT CHMA MEETING SUNDAY

Next regular meeting of the California Hydraulic Mining association will be held at the Bret Hart Inn, Grass Valley, on Sunday, May 8, beginning at 2 p.m. This is the election meeting.

Guest speaker will be Mort Turner, division of mines geologist. His topic will be "Radio-activity and U-235".

He will demonstrate a Geiger counter on radio-active minerals. The pre-meeting luncheon will be at 1 p.m.

LET'S HAVE HARMONY IN THE COURTHOUSE

The courthouse needs an injection of harmony.

Too much bickering and pettiness in relations between some departments is a constant occurrence.

All county officials are servants of the people of Nevada county and should remember that fact. The people of Nevada county expect the best in cooperation and conscientious effort to efficiently and economically operate the business of administering public affairs.

It should be remembered by all county officials, regardless of how many years they have held office, they can be removed from office by the mere minority of one vote when the electorate expresses its opinion at the polls.

Actions of public officials should be predicated with open minds and the complete elimination of personality likes or dislikes. Actions of officials executed in spite will be totted and collected for by a long-remembering electorate.

We specifically refer to the action of the board of supervisors in denying the recommendations by the grand jury of salary increases to the superior judge, district attorney and auditor. The denial, in our opinion, was motivated only because of personal differences between some members of the board and the superior judge

These factors enter into the recommendation by the grand jury of the salary increases for the three offices: a bill is before the state legislature automatically setting the annual salary of superior judges of the Nevada county class at $10,000. The judge's present salary is $8,700—a diferrence of a mere $1,300, less than the cost of two months' lease of one piece of road equipment.

The county auditor has the responsbility of a fiscal office that one small mechanical error could turn into a heavy financial burden. The grand jury recommends an increase of $380 annually to that office. To deny the judge a raise the board blithely denies this long-overdue increase.

To deny the judge a raise the board also denies the district attorney a long-overdue increase. The district attorney receives $3,100 a year. From that the government takes $620 in federal income tax, leaving $2480 take-home pay. Fifty years ago the district attorney's office in Nevada county was paid $2500 and with income tax unheard of. And if anyone can consider the purchasing power of today's dollar as equal to the purchasing power of the 1895 dollar he better get to Washington where his fiscal genius can be appreciated by John W. Snyder.

It is the duty of any official to execute any and all acts with an impersonal open mind and not with pettiness and spite.

SUPPORT YOUR ARMORY

Guest Editorial by Harleth Brock

Something of vital importance to everyone of us is going to be deprived Nevada county, unless we all act and act immediately. As we all know $105,000 has been ear-marked for this county for an armory building. This building would be in use one night a week by the National Guard—the rest of the week it would be available to any and every organization in the county. We need this building, here. Your local guard unit is in dire need of storage space for equipment as well as adequate training space.

The subcommittee has entirely deleted all funds for armories in the state of California. The ways and means committee will meet in the immediate future to hear and vote on same. If they concur in the recommendation of the subcommittee, this would have a drastic effect on the senate finance committee. Therefore, I urge you as an individual citizen to act "IMMEDIATELY". We must not delay a minute. I urge you to write, wire, or telephone our local representatives—Mr Johnson and Mr. Lindsay, urging them to support the National Guard Armory Building Program. This is of importance to every voter and taxpayer in this county. We must have this armory building, and it is up to us to go after it.

Senator Harold T Johnson—423 Grove St., Roseville.
Assemblyman Francis C. Lindsay—463 (P. O. Box) Loomis.

What everyone wants: 1949 wages, 1928 dividends, 1932 prices, and 1910 taxes.

WHY NOT DO IT HERE ?

Following is an excerpt from a publicity release of the division of fish and game for California:

"Chester, Plumas County — Nearly 50,000 eastern brook and rainbow trout will be planted in four Plumas county streams April 15 by members of the Chester Lions club and the division of fish and game

"Plans have been made for tagging some of the fish to aid in biological studies

"The year-old fish were purchased from a private hatchery with county proceeds from mines assessed violators of the Fish and Game Code."

This is an example of what happens in some counties. And the take from violators is just as high in the counties adjacent to Lake Tahoe, if not higher, than elsewhere.

A lot of fine work has been done around the lake by sportsmen's groups and service clubs. Promises have been secured from state officials that improvements, such as check dams, will be made.

If the interested groups will keep up the good work and carry it further by attempting to get county officials to spend violation money for fish, who knows but what that project might be successful too.

MINING INCENTIVE BILL APPROVED

The mines and mining subcommittee, of which I am chairman, has voted out a new bill providing for incentive and exploration payments for the production of critical and strategic minerals and metals. The action of the subcommittee will unquestionably in the near future be approved by the full public lands committee.

The effect of the bill is to grant incentive payments to any miner who produces strategic and critical minerals and metals designated as needed by the national stockpile by the munitions board, provided that the minerals and metals meet the specifications and can be produced within the price range which the government is willing to pay. The measure makes provision for the government paying premiums above current market prices. In addition, the government wlil assist in doing exploration work making grants of federal funds for that purpose. Under the measure, the small miner is given an advantage because the government puts in a larger percentage on small exploration work. As the amount involved for the exploration work increases, the amount of government participation decreases.

COMPROMISE REACHED

The measure represents a compromise between the majority views of the mining industry as expressed to the mining subcommittee and the views of the department of interior. The department of interior supported incentive payments to bring out this necessary production, but wanted to have authority in granting or refusing contracts.

The committee and the industry generally wanted a bill which established standards which would give the premium to any miner who met the requirements. As indicated above, standards have been established in this legislation. The list of materials is designed as that established by the munitions board as critical and strategic in the stockpile program. The specifications will be those established for the stockpiling, and, the price will be an amount determined by a formula which can be in excess of current market prices.

LIMITATION ON PAYMENTS

However, in order to satisfy interior department objections, the director of the program will be given discretion to refuse premium payments in three instances: First, where the miner transfers his operations from a high-grade to a low-grade ore in order to qualify for a premium; secondly, where a miner by paying higher than average wages or contract prices is taking labor away from other mines working on high-grde ore; and, thirdly, where in any locality the operation of the incentive program has failed to increase the total production.

The deplorable condition of our stockpile is admitted by everybody. The use of incentive payments to bring out necessary production for the stockpile has been accepted in principle by the Administration and urged by a large proportion of the mining industry. Our difficulty has been in getting a method accomplishing this objective which meets both the approval of the industry and the department of interior. This measure will not completely satisfy either side, but it is hoped that it is a good enough compromise to get real consideration in this session.

GOLD DIGGER'S TRAIL

Charles Scott Haley

"I joomp in front of my man an' I say to other feller, 'No you shoot him. Eef you wanna shoot, you shoot me'." Then with rising inflection of the utmost surprise, "An' begod, he did!" The tragedy to our minds seemed slightly overweighed by the comic side of it, but anyway we got her to the hospital, where she quickly recovered.

Our objective for the trip was to examine a placer property on Portage Creek, a tributary of the Delta River, which in turn runs into the Tanana. Eventually, the promoter arrived, and we found him to be a hulk of a man who weighed over three hundred pounds. He was taking his client along with him, and both Janin and I were no small men. In addition, there was Frank, the driver. And we had to start out over a muddy road, the Winter Trail, which had been but newly thawed that spring, with nothing but a broken down Model T Ford, vintage of 1910.

The car puffed up and rattled to our door on two or three cylinders one fine morning, and we four filed up to pile in beside and behind the driver. At sight of our combined weight of some nine hundred pounds—the promoter made us all average up to 225 apiece—the car stopped dead in its tracks and shied across the road. The owner persuaded it back to our door, where it trembled and shook in anticipation of immediate dissolution. Nevertheless we all piled in with a half ton of baggage piled on the roof, and oozed off on the trail to Salchaket.

It had just happened that two Jeffery forewheel drive trucks had been over the road a week or so before, creating in the narrow track two enormous ruts into which our Model T continually squattered and shuddered. With the excessibe weight, which bowed even transverse springs to the axle, the little car would scrape transmission and rear end in the mud and every mile or so we would be stalled high and handsomely, with wheels spinning ineffectively. Here was where our greatest liability—the 300 pound promoter—turned himself into an asset.

We would all pile out and uproot one of the millions of fir saplings which lined the road, hunt up a good sized rock for a fulcrum, and set it, and then the gentleman would set just one foot on the upper end of the tree and bear down. Up would come the Ford out of the rut, and we would resume progress for another mile or so. By this rather sketchy mode of travel, we finally arrived at Salchaket, which is a fairly comfortable roadhouse, along about eight o'clock. As it was the time of the year of total day in the north, we had no bother about darkness; but the mosquitos were commencing to set a very heavy barrage, and we were glad to quit for a few hours.

After a good sleep, we set out again in the early morning in our accustomed blacksliding progress, and arrived at the Tanana crossing opposite Martins roadhouse, about noon the next day. Raising the long yell, we succeeded in attracting the caretaker at the roadhouse, and he put out in a small boat to meet us. In the meantime, we unloaded our baggage from the car, and bade it a grateful farewell until our return journey.

The Tanana was booming along at full flood—about a quarter of a mile wide, muddy and angry. About four hundred yards below the roadhouse, the river dropped off into a boiling, foaming rapid in which neither boat nor man would have the slightest chance of survival. I noticed that our boatman paddled his heavy craft far upstream before he attempted to cross, and paddled desperately through the swift current, to land near where we were standing. With the load that we were going to put into that boat, I had my misgivings. Fortunately our heavyweight was not going on with us, but Frank, the driver, was. This made four of us to pile in with the ferryman, together with all of our equipment.

As the boatman came closer, I noted that he was holding high converse with himself in the most marvelous variety of profanity that I had yet heard—and I was not unfamiliar with experts. He was evidently from the old sod of Ireland, by his brogue, and he greeted us in not unfriendly manner. After loading all of our equipment, he delegated us our positions in the boat, taking the bow oar himself, and giving me the stern paddle. Our three companions were seated amidships. We paddled near half a mile upstream, and then he swung the bow across. Immediately we were caught in the swift current and whirled down toward the roaring rapids. We paddled desperately, but the other shore was painfully slow in approaching. Our captain devoted himself to me in a string of profanity which awed me and interested me in spite of our evident deadly peril.

"Pull, yez (unmentionable son of unmentionable), or yer carcass'll be dogmeat in five minutes, and all of us (unmentionables) with ye. Be the baldheaded Mother of Jasus, why was I iver fool enough to travel wtih a lot of (unmentionable) tenderfoots and all the baggage for a round the world trip. May the Lard strike me dead if 'twas my doin'. Now Pull, ye (unmentionable) cheecako! PULL!"

And much more of the same, only deadlier. By invoking the bald headed deity of his choice, however, he must have lent new strength to our arms, because we managed to get the bow of the boat into the last eddy above the rapids, just in time.

Veterans' News

To prevent overpayments of subsistence allowances, veterans administration urges ex-GI students and their schools to notify VA as soon as a veteran breaks off or completes his program.

A veteran student in training under the GI bill is not entitled to subsistence allowances after the date he interrupts or completes his training. In some cases, veterans stop their training and receive additional payments before VA is notified of their change in status. All such overpayments must be refunded to the government.

Advance notice is preferable whenever a decision is made to discontinue training. However, prompt notice immediately after such a break in training will prevent most overpayments.

Eligible veterans who want to take courses under the GI bill that cost more than $500 for the normal school year may do so by trading training time for the extra cost, veterans administration said.

The additional charge in training time will be at the rate of one day for each $2.10 of the excess charge above the $500 maximum payment allowed by law.

Veterans desiring to enroll in excess cost courses must authorize VA to pay the full charges by filling in forms provided for that purpose.

Question: How does VA determine whether a disability is service-connected?

Answer: VA determines a disability to be service-connected if it results from disease or injury incurred in or aggravated by active military or naval service in line of duty.

Question: Does veterans administration provide prosthetic appliances for veterans regardless of how they are injured?

Answer: No. They are supplied to veterans who need appliances for (1) a service-connected condition; (2) for injury or disease for which hospitalization has been authorized; or (3) as an incident of domiciliary care.

Question: I was given a bad conduct discharge from the Army but feel that it was unfair. Can anything be done to change the discharge so that I may receive VA benefits?

Answer: Any discharge or dismissal not the result of general court martial may be reviewed on application of the veteran addressed to the service department concerned. Boards of review established in each of the service departments have authority to change, correct or modify such discharges in accord with the facts presented.

Birchville Buildings Ancient and Historical

By Mrs. Roberta Stuart

Many of Birchville's buildings are ancient and historic, according to Mrs. Margaret Madden. The home she now lives in used to be 'California Inn" and was noted for its lamps. Her sister, Miss Theresa O'Conor, lives in a house so well kept, it looks as nice as the day it was built, nearly one hundred years ago.

Birchville was a busy little mining town many years ago, but many stores and the post office have been destroyed. The Catholic church still stands and Father Gabrielle conducts services there every fourth Sunday of the month. Mrs. Madden recalls it was once the training hall of the artillery battery of her father's.

The Birchville Methodist church s over eighty years old.

Yankee Meat Square

Lagging spring appetites will perk up at the sight of Yankee meat square with creamed vegetables, buttered asparagus, and spiced crabapples.

Add another tempting casserole dish to your spring menus by serving this Yankee meat square. It combines cooked cubed meat, enriched bread cubes, eggs, and meat broth or milk in a nourishing main course. This is not a fluffy mixture, but has more the consistency of bread pudding.

Yankee meat square makes a simple company dish, for the mixture may be pressed into a nine-inch ring mold. After baking, unmold and fill center with creamed vegetables. Buttered asparagus may be the green vegetable on the menu, with a needed spicy accent supplied by pickled crabapples.

Cubes of meat scattered through the square give "bite" and meat flavor to it, while the enriched bread supplements the food value with B-vitamins, iron, and food energy.

The bread cubes used in making this dish may be made from day old bread, but they should not be dry and hard. The meat square or ring is easy to unmold if pans are lined with waxed paper.

YANKEE MEAT SQUARE

4 cups enriched bread cubes
2 cups cooked meat, cubed
2 eggs
2 cups meat broth or milk, or liquid from canned vegetables
1½ teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper

Mix bread cubes and meat. Beat eggs, add broth or milk, salt and pepper. Pour over bread mixture. Mix well. Pour into greased eight-inch square pan. (Lining the bottom of pan or ring mold with waxed paper prevents sticking.)

Press firmly into pan. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 45 minutes. Unmold, cut into squares, and serve with creamed vegetables or tomato sauce. Makes six servings.

MARIN COUNTY FETES ROUGH AND READY AT ANNUAL MOUNTAIN PLAY

A centennial note of interest colors the thirty-second annual mountain play "Rough an' Ready", to be presented Sunday, May 22 at 2 p.m. in Marin county's Mount Tamalpais state park amphitheater.

The production takes its title from a small mining town in Nevada county, celebrated during the gold rush days for its freedom of action—for in April, 1850, it seceded from federal and state governments.

Named for 'Rough and Ready' President Zachary Taylor and founded by Wisconsin pioneers, the townspeople soon took a violent dislike to an influx of New Englanders finally culminating in a declaration of independence in order to effectively deal with the newcomer. A federal tax on miners, however, has ben offered as a more logical reason for their decision to take government into their own hands. Titled "The Great Republic of Rough-and-Ready", it came to a short end for forgetting to notify the president of the U. S. for the parting of the ways and wanting to use the stars-and-stripes to celebrate the 4th of July of 1850.

ASSESSMENT WORK IS DUE ON CLAIMS JULY 1

One hundred dollars worth of assessment work on each mining claim for the assessment year of 1948-49 must be completed by noon of July 1, according to information received here by John E. Nettell, county recorder.

An additional 30 days is granted to file an affidavit of the assessment work, duly notarized, in the office of the county recorder for the county in which the claim is located.

However a bill is now pending in congress to grant an extension of three months to Oct. 1, to permit work on claims that were inaccessible because of the heavy snow of the past winter.

This bill still has to be passed by both houses of congress and signed by the president.

If the extension is granted, the claim holder would be able to complete his 1948-49 assessment work and the work for 1949-50, a total of $200 worth of work for each claim, before Oct. 1, 1949.

HIGHWAY 49 GUIDEBOOK IS NOW AVAILABLE

Second printing of Bulletin 141, "Geologic Guidebook Along Highway 49," is now available for distribution, according to an announcement by Olaf J. Jenkins, chief, state division of mines, department of natural resources.

Few publications of the division have received such rapid and widespread response from the public. The first edition of 7500 copies was exhausted within 2½ months of the initial distribution date. The second edition will consist of 10,000 copies. Although primarily a publication for California, widespread out-of-state interest is reflected in the mailing list.

This book, the first of a series of guidebooks, represents the edition of the division of mines describing the mother lode country, and is a semi-technical treatise prepared to serve as a guide to the traveler who is desirous of information concerning the mines, minerals, and rocks of the region, as well as the old structures erected during the gold rush days.

Ten different authors have contributed to the text and valuable information has been obtained from a score of mining men and geologists. The volume includes "Sierran Roads of Today and Yesterday," by Dorothy G. Jenkins, an article well worth reading as it gives the traveler a survey of the road traversing the area and illustrates their history. "The Discovery of Gold in California," by Donald C. Cutter, has to do with the history, life, and romance of the gold rush period and is especially applicable now during California's centennial celebration. The place of gold placer mining is well presented in Charles V. Averill's paper on the "History of Placer Mining for Gold in California." The reader is oriented as to the nature of the Sierra Nevada and the place it occupies in relation to history, geology, civilization and economics by Olaf P. Jenkins' papers on the "Sierra Nevada Province" and the "Geologic History of the Sierran Gold Belt." C. A. Logan presents an educational as well as entertaining treatise on the "History of Mining and Milling Methods in California," and "Geologic Maps and Notes Along Highway 49," by Oliver E. Bowen, Jr., and Richard A. Crippen, Jr., containing 12 strip maps on route geology, is a well-illustrated work on the position of the mines and quarries, the importance of their mineral deposits, and the geologic reasons for their being. "The Formation of Quartz Veins," by John A. Burgess, will be of interest to all amateur mineralogists as well as those more technically trained, and his "Mining on Carson Hill" tells of Jim Carson's activities in that region and gives the history of the Carson Hill Gold Mining company. The charm of the old mining towns, which harmonize so perfectly with the natural loveliness of the Sierran foothills and stand as mute evidence of the early development of what is now called industrial minerals, is well shown by picture and story in Robert F. Heizer's and Franklin Fenenga's "Survey of Building Structures of the Sierran Gold Belt, 1848-70." This article contains 168 illustrations taken at various localities in the gold belt.

This volume contains a series of geologic maps covering the entire highway, a strip 277 miles in length, from Mariposa in the south to Sattley in the north, and features eight colored and 231 black and white photographs. As an effort was made to include the names and locations of the older abandoned settlements as well as existing towns, the principal mines and mineral deposits, the locations of the historic monuments, and mileage for use in location while traveling, this volume is one of the most outstanding educational, and interesting books published on the Mother Lode country.

SOUTHERN PACIFIC IS GREAT RAILWAY SAYS HISTORICAL SPEAKER

"The Big Four never knew how well they built," was the statement of George McCormack, Palo Alto, division engineer of the Southern Pacific Lines, at Tuesday evening's meeting of the Nevada County Historical society at Episcopal parish house, Grass Valley. McCormack related the building of the Central Pacific railway by Mark Hopkins, Leland Stanford, C. P. Huntington, and Charles Crocker.

McCormack said the big four would have been amazed at the future of their transcontinental railway. He said the financial statement of his company exceeds the value of all gold ever taken from the state of California.

McCormack said he believed no major lines will be built in railroad future, and no new spurs will be built except to timber and mineral development.

McCormack said the diesels may in 10 years relegate the steam locomotive to the realm of historical curiosity.

The society adopted a resolution endorsing a national guard armory for Nevada county and ordered copies be distributed to proper authorities.

President Elmer Stevens announced Sunday, May 29 historical excursion will be guided by Bob Paine of Nevada City. He also reported that 78 historical markers had been completed, and matching funds obtained from the state.

Mrs. Mable Keckley played two piano numbers during the evening.

Refreshments were served by a committee, consisting of Mr. and Mrs. Byron Brock, Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Varney, Mr. and Mrs. L. Feegan.

Mrs. Juliet Cox was program chairman for the evening.

DANGEROUS PLACE ON TAHOE HIGHWAY WILL BE REBUILT THIS YEAR

The public roads administration, San Francisco, is calling for bids on 3.5 miles of construction of forest highway No. 31 between Tahoe City and Brockway to be built from forest highway funds.

Bids will be opened Thursday, May 19, and will involve some 115,000 cubic yards of excavation, 28 acres of cleaning and 21,000 tons of hose course surfacing material.

This is a long postponed project which was about to be contracted when the war broke out. Completion of the project will remove a dangerous, winding section of heavily traveled lakeshore highway.

Court Validates Loan Request by District

Superior court Wednsday validated Donner utility district resolution to request loan of $2,000.

Court continued until this morning failure to provide case of people vs. James Cannon for non-support. Court appointed Albert L. Johnson, Nevada City, attorney for defense.

Jurors were drawn for jury trial of case of Frank Laurence vs. Sutter Supply Co., Sacramento. Laurence asks $2700 reimbursement for payment and losses caused, he claims, by collapse of building by weight of snow on roof. Laurence charges the defendants claimed roof of building would hold several feet of snow but the building actually collapsed with first three or four feet of accumulated snow, he states.

A $10,803.07 damage suit was filed yesterday by Frank Bassett against Harry Leon Miller, as a result of an auto accident on Highway 40 east of Truckee last fall.

Bassett has charged in the complaint the accident was a result of Miller's carelessness when he forced the Bassett auto off the highway, causing it to crash into a ditch.

$3,408 FINAL TOTAL FOR RED CROSS FUND

Final results of the Nevada City chapter, American Red Cross 1949 fund campaign have been released by J. F. Seigfreid, drive chairman who reported volunteer workers collected $3408.98 during the recent drive.

This figure represents 46 per cent more than the chapter quota of $243. The final figure became available when Seigfreid received over $500 from the Truckee branch which had met its quota after a lengthy campaign necessitated by the cold weather and deep snows in mountain communities. Mrs. R. N. Dolley of Truckee organized the efficient workers in that area.

Nevada City was the eighth chapter in the entire state to meet its quota.

Mrs. Bonner's SECOND GRADE

Last week was public education week and many parents came to visit. We enjoyed having them very much.

We are doing harder arithmetic now, and group II has started another book in their reading group.

Today we each had a chance to hear our voices on the wire recorder. We discovered that we sound different to other people than we do to ourselves.

Our sunflowers are growing more every day.

The room monitors for the week are Jimmie Danos and Anthony White. The flag salute leader is Dale Bagley.

FIFTH GRADE NEWS

We have new class officers. They are as follows: Janet Haley, president; Carol Ogden, vice president; Sharon Hurst, secretary; Janet Scribner, treasurer; Yvonne Nutt, sergeant at arms; Ann Tamblyn, class reporter.

We have a new girl. Her name is Carol Ogden. She has come from Whittier, Calif.

At physical education the girls have been playing the sixth grade A and B teams. The B team won 6-0, the A team lost 16-2.

The boys have been playing baseball tall. They played St. Mary's fifth grade Saturday losing 10-5. — Ann Tamblyn, your new class reporter.

Mrs. Haley's SIXTH GRADE

Our Sixth Grade boys played the St. Mary's Sixth Graders in a fast baseball game last Saturday. We lost to St. Mary's 10-5, but it was still a good game.

The girls have formed a baseball team too, and hope to play Mrs. Thibault's Seventh and Eighth Grade girls one day next week. The girls' line-up is as follows: Catcher, Fay Crawford; Pitcher, Betty Peacock (capt.); First Base, Janet Williams; Second Base, Shirley Williams; Third Base, Patsy Carr; Roving Short, Helen Schance; Shortstop, Mary Lou Coughlin; Right Shortstop, Mary Ann Evans; Left Shortstop, Lloyd Morris.

Our art class has made some lovely pins and brooches as Mother's Day gifts. These were on display in our school hobby case.

—Patsy Carr, Reporter

THE SEVENTH GRADE

We had a musical contest yesterday. Wade Penrose played on the clarinet. Mary Brown sang "Old Black Joe," and Gilbert Larson and Lee Smart played "Galway Bay." Wade won the prize award. Our program on "China" worked out well over KGFN—By Jim Curry.

Poor engine performance in your car may result unless the air cleaner is cleaned and serviced at regular intervals, the California State Automobile association advises.

1898 COUNTY ELECTION CARDS DISPLAYED IN NUGGET WINDOW HERE

A collection of 1898 political cards is on display in the window of the Nevada City Nugget. The cards were loaned to the local newspaper by an anonymous individual and will be placed in the custody of the Nevada county historical society.

George L. Jones, one of the very few not bearing heavy facial foliage, was a candidate for district attorney. Jones, now retired superior court judge, recollects it was his first political campaign, and at which he was defeated. In fact says only two of the candidates in the display were successful in winning their campaigns, E. B. Power, Republican, opponent of Jones, and T. J. Torpie, candidate for public administrator.

Other pictures discovered in the Nevada theater by Mrs. Floy-Margaret Reynolds were placed in the Nugget winlow for identification have attracted considerable attention and additions.

One has been identified by Clayton Reynolds as the 1905 graduation picture of Nevada City high school. The class was a remarkable one in that all of the 11 graduates attended college. The class was the first to name the high school's annual "The Quill." Class members are George Scarff, Hartley Lord, Jane Clemo Waters, Leith McKay, Ethel Richards McMillen, Fred Searls, Annie Maltman Haney, Clayton Bennett, Hazel Hyde, Ed Snell, David Morgan.

Another picture, loaned to the Nugget by Max Solaro, is the first grade classe of 1914. The picture includes Solaro and Bob Paine.

Another group picture has been largely unidentified. Old timers believe most of the group are from Grass Valley. Only identifications were Carroll Ashburn, who has made a name for himself on the stage, Carroll Searls and Carl P. Jones, brother of Judge George Jones.

The confirmation class of 1923 of St. Canice church was partially identified by Vera Tocealini Steger, a member of the class. The picture includes Irma Pinaglia Visintianer, Mary Peters, Vera Reggis Garst, Mildred Reeder, Gertrude Jones, Lena Ghidotti, Denise Foley, Beatrice Cassidy Frances Davey Chapman, Lucille Fogarty Costa, Loretta Bartsch Jones, Mary Arbogast. Identified by last names only are Cicogni, Randall, Fleming and Flynn.
